

Tilda® RICE MATTERS

Legendary Rice

...TO THE ROYAL GARDEN HOTEL, LONDON

Working at the prestigious Royal Garden Hotel for over 14 years, Head Chef Steve Munkley is well accustomed to the catering needs of an esteemed London 5 star hotel. With no one day ever the same, Steve works hard to maintain the level of excellence that is reflected throughout the establishment in the hotel's cuisine. With covers reaching up to 3000 a day, Steve relies on only the very best ingredients to deliver the wide range of dishes created in the kitchen. With a vast quantity of Basmati rice already used this year, Steve looks to Tilda to supply him with the very best quality rice available. Steve states: "We have to consider so many different menus here at the Royal Garden so I only look for ingredients I know are going to continually give a faultless result. Tilda rice is one of the few ingredients I absolutely insist on having in the kitchen."

A hugely important and widely used menu item at the hotel, Tilda's Basmati Rice provides Steve with a consistently reliable quality product he can serve to his discerning customers; "The most important thing to me is to satisfy their needs and meet their expectations with the food I'm serving. Using Tilda Basmati Rice makes cooking and serving rice easier, I can always trust Tilda to deliver perfect results every time we cook it." Steve adds, "I will continue to only use Tilda rice and would recommend it to any chef looking to serve consistently delicious and quality dishes."

... ACROSS THE WORLD

- Rice farming has been traced back to around 5,000 BC*. Today Tilda know over 10,000 small independent rice farmers by name who they work with to carefully nurture the grain from seed to plate.
- The Hindi word 'basmati' means 'the fragrant one' and refers to the nutty like flavour and aroma of this delicate and slender grained rice. ^
